BRANCH HERE OF HOLLAND SOCIETY

At Dinner of Trustees of Society at Eagle Hotel Saturday Evening a Committee Was Appointed to Organize an Ulster County Branch.

At the close of the banquet of the trustees of the Holland Society of New York and a number of invited guests at the Eagle Hotel Saturday evening, Vice President William J. Turck was empowered to appoint a committee to take up the question of establishing an Ulster county branch of the parent society. The committee appointed is composed of Bruyn Hasbrouck of New Paltz, Martin Cantine of Saugerties and Judge A. T. Clearwater of Kingston.

The banquet was preceded by a reception to the trustees of the Holland Society which gave everyone present an opportunity to become better acquainted, and at 8:15 o'clock the banquet was served in the spacious dining rooms of the hotel when the following fine menu was faultlessly served:

Mattitucks on half shell.
Queen Olives. Table Celery.
Salted Almonds.
Bisque of Tomato aux Croutons.
Broiled Spanish Mackerel Maitre D'hotel, Pommes Julienne.
Sweetbreads Glasse with Muchrooms
Roast Maryland Turkey,
With Cranberry Sauce.
Mashed Potatoes. June Green Peas.
Fruit Salad with Mayonnaise Dressing.
Pineapple Ice Cream.
Macaroons. Lady Fingers.
Cheese and Crackers.
Demi Tassse.

Should Be Organized Here.

Vice President Turck presiding as toastmaster introduced the speakers of the evening. The first three men called up were President DeWitt Van Buskirk of Bayonne, N. J.; Secretary Frederic R. Keator of New York; and Treasurer Charles L. Schenck of Brooklyn, of the Holland Society in New York, who spoke briefly and called attention to the fact that Kingston and Ulster county were filled with the traditions of the Dutch and that a local society of the Holland Society of New York should be organized in Kingston.

President Van Buskirk expressed the hope that the outcome of the banquet that evening would be the appointing of a committee to take up the question of organizing a local society here.

One In Brooklyn.

Walter N. Mesnole, president of the local society in Brooklyn, spoke glowingly of the work accomplished. The Brooklyn branch has only been organized about three years and is still growing.

Dutchess County Represented.

Judge Hasbrouck of Dutchess county spoke briefly of the organization of the Dutchess county society over thirty years ago, and said that Dutchess county shone from the reflected glory of Ulster county, and he had always been astounded over the fact that no attempt had ever been made to organize a Holland Society in this county.

Judge Clearwater Spoke.

Judge A. T. Clearwater outlined the glorious traditions of Kingsten and reviewed its early Dutch history, and then at the request of President Van Buskirk the judge spoke briefly on the subject of immigration which had been his subject at his address as president of the St. Nicholas Society to its members several days ago. "Sentimentalists" said the judge "have talked considerable twaddle about this country being the melting pot, but it is not the melting pot of the world."

Previous to 1880 the tide of emigration from Europe was from the Nordic races, which had developed a high degree of intelligence, but since 1880 the tide has set in from southern Europe, Russia and parts of Asia. The crime eruptions through out the country could be traced to this alien emigration, and statistics showed that 38 per sent of the immigrants since 1880 were illiterate. On the other hand those who emigrated to this country from the Nordic races showed less than 1 per cent.

Van Buren Disagreed.

Augustus H. Van Buren, introduced as the author of "Ulster County Under the Dominion of the Dutch", called attention to the fact that old Peter Stuyvesant was a bigot, and spoke briefly of the proclamation made by Stuyvesant in regard to the Quakers, and that in Flushing, L. I., there were thirty-two men who signed a statement objecting to the Stuyvesant ruling that Quakers and others should be driven from the community. "And mark you" said Mr. Van Buren, "many of those who signed that document were illiterate and unable to sign their names."

Mr. Van Buren did not believe in the danger from the immigration tide that had set in since 1880, and said that if those early immigrants who had landed here in the days of the Dutch were to enter the banqueting hall that those present would jump out of the window. Many of the founders of this country in the early days were illiterate.

Committee Is Appointed.

At the close of Mr. Van Buren's address Vice-President Turck said that he was ready to entertain any motion, and one was introduced that he be empowered to appoint a committee to take up the matter of forming a Holland Society in Kingston and Ulster county, which was unanimously adopted.

Before closing the Rev. Lucas Boeve, pastor of the historic old Dutch Church, invited those present who were remaining in Kingston over the week end to worship at the church on Sunday.

REBELS MENACE MEXICAN CAPITAL

8,000 Rebels at Its Gates With But 2,000 Obregon Men Defending It—Foreigners Leaving City as Revolt Assumes Greater Proportions.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Mexico City, Dec. 17.—A civilian rebel army, numbering more than 8,000 was posted today at the gateway to Mexico City awaiting orders from the revolutionary leaders to seize government arsenals and public buildings, it was revealed by a tour of the suburbs.

This city is defended by only about 2,000 federal soldiers.

Foreigners are leaving the city on every train. Some of the foreign colonies are nearly deserted.

Five thousand Federal troops that left here Friday under command of General Macotte to join the Federal army concentrated in the region of Esperanza are reported to have joined General Guadaulupe Sanchez's rebel army.

General Macotte was well supplied with ammunition and possessed forty new machine guns which the Federal government had received only last week.

General Gomez, commander of the loyal troops in the Federal district, announced that the capital would be defended if attacked.

According to war office advices, the Federal army which evacuated Puebla turned back from Apizaco to give battle to the rebels on the border of the states of Tlaxaca and Puebla.

Fears are felt that Mexico may drift towards Bolshevism. If political aspirations are cast aside and a class struggle arises, Mexico may see the bloodiest civil war in her history.

General P. Ellias Calles, who has been appointed commander in chief of the Federal armies by President Obregon, has issued a manifesto appealing to all farmers and workers to support the Obregon government.

"It would be very easy for me to start the ball rolling for a class war, but, my God, where would it stop," exclaimed General Calles in an interview with International News Service.

Turmoil is reported from the districts held by rebels.

Dissensions are reported among the rebel leaders.

There is a possibility of new factions taking the field in an effort to seize control of the central government.

An unconfirmed report was circulated here that General Angel Flores, until recently a candidate for president, might take the field within a few days against both the Mexico City government and the Huertista rebels. He has the support of the old Cientifico, or aristocratic element which was in power during the Diaz regime.

DIAMOND LOST AND FOUND TWICE IN EIGHTEEN HOURS

Mrs. I. O. Feldstein of 557 Broadway has a beautifully diamond ring which, naturally enough, she prizes highly. Sunday she experienced one of those "big moments in life" which the movies tell about and very early this morning she experienced another one, both times when she found the diamond ring which had been lost. The first disappearance was when Sunday morning she discovered that the stone was missing from its setting. Diligent search finally resulted in the recovery of the stone within her home and she at once placed the ring and the stone in a supposedly safe place until today when she planned to have the jewel reset. About 7 o'clock Sunday evening the stone and ring were again found missing and a search even more diligent than the first began which lasted until half past twelve this morning when ring and stone were found where Mrs. Feldstein's baby had left them when he got through playing with them.

36,000,000,000 GALS. IN ASHOKAN

Fall Rains Raised Level Of Upper Basin 34 Feet And Added 19,000,000,000 Gallons To Stored Water —Over 5 Inches Of Rain.

The heavy fall rains have resulted in a much more satisfactory condition at the Ashokan reservoir and New York's water supply, which has been in a precariously low state for many months, is assured for the winter months.

November 30 the water reached the lowest stage in the history of the reservoir when there was but 17,000,000,000 gallons in storage and the surface was 527.93 feet above sea level. On December 13, the highest mark reached in a long period, there was in storage 36,000,000,000 gallons, according to the Department of Water Supply records and the water in the upper basin had risen to 562.47 feet above sea level, an increase in depth of about 34½ feet.

The department's records also show that on November 29 and 30 and December 4, 5, 6, 9 and 10 a total of 5.11 inches fell on the watershed, the heaviest rainfall ever recorded there in a similar autumn period.

Part of the water from the upper basin has been allowed to go through the gates to the lower basin.

No definite date has been set for turning the Schoharie water through the Shandaken tunnel but this is expected to be done within a few weeks.

FRANCE BECOMING LESS SEVERE THINK BRITISH

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Dec. 17.—American arms and ammunition are now moving across the Mexican border and through the gulf ports in considerable volume, according to confidential advices reaching Washington.

MANY RALLY TO REV. MR. HEATON

Protestant Episcopal Minister To Be Tried For Heresy Is Backed By 500 Members of Churchmen's Union—Doesn't Believe In Virgin Birth.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Dec. 17.—An ecclesiastical storm today threatened to rock the Protestant Episcopal Church in America to its very foundations.

Low church "modernism" was at issue with high church "fundamentalism."

The dispute centered around the historic authenticity of the virgin birth of Christ.

The Rev. Lee W. Heaton, youthful pastor of Trinity Episcopal Church, Fort Worth, Texas, a former resident of Omaha and graduate of the Jesuit Catholic University was the storm center of dispute.

Against him stood the House of Bishops of the Episcopal Churches.

Some five hundred or more clergymen enrolled in thhe Modern Churchmen's Union, were his defenders.

The Rev. Mr. Heaton is to be tried for heresy by the order of Coadjutor Bishop T. Moore of the Diocese of Texas. A Palm Sunday sermon, in which the Rev. Mr. Heaton said, "It was his belief that Christ was the son of Joseph," will be the question at issue.

The Rev. Dr. Leighton Parks, pastor of St. Bartholomew's Church, New York, charged Bishop Moore had said "The Rev. Mr. Heaton has no chance of acquittal."

The Rev. Dr. Stuart L. Tyson, vicar of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, New York, leader of the faction backing the Rev. Mr. Heaton termed the situation "the most critical in church history."

The Rev. Mr. Heaton, a visitor in New York at the invitation of Dr. Tyson, Dr. Parks and Dr. Alexander C. Cummins, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., declined to discuss his case today, allowing Dr. Tyson and Dr. Parks to speak for him.

Dr. Parks was outspoken. He termed the Rev. Mr. Heaton "a poor, friendless, and almost helpless minister." He challenged Bishop William T. Manning of New ork, to file heresy charges against Bishop William Lawrence, of Massachusetts, Bishop Edwin S. Lines of Newark, N. J., the Rev. Dr. W. Russell Bowie, pastor of Grace Episcopal Church, New York, Dr Elwood Worcester of Emmanuel Church, Boston, or himself.

"I make the same statement the Rev. Mr. Heaton made, so has Bishop Lawrence," Dr. Parks declared today. "The house of Bishops will not try Bishop Lawrence, however; it would split the church in twain."

Others defending the Rev. Mr. Heaton, according to Dr. Parks are: Dr. Karl Reiland, St. George's Church, New York; the Rev. Dr. John Howard Melish, Holy Trinity Church, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Dr. John Wade, St. John the Evangelist, New York; Dr. Carl Grammer, St. Stephen's, Philadelphia, Dr. Samuel McComp, Episcopal Divinity School, Cambridge, Mass., and Dr. Frank Nelson, Christ Church, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Defending the views of the modernist, denying the virgin birth of Christ, Dr. Parks said:

"I can find but three references to the matter in the Bible.

"St. Paul says "Jesus was born of the seed of David after the flesh." Matthew and Luke trace Joseph to David. St. Mark is silent on the virgin birth. The fourth gospel says "Joseph was His father."

Against this is the demand of the House of Bishops that all Episcopal clergymen subscribe to the Apostles Creed with the phrase "Conceived by the Holy Ghost and born of the Virgin Mary."

The Rev. Mr. Heaton's trial will be held in January. Dr. Tyson's organization, the Modern Church Men's Union, which has raised a defense fund of $1,000, announced it was mailing to 10,000 bishops, pastors, ministers and laymen, a printed review of the case defending the Rev. Mr. Heaton.

MORE HUNTERS BUT DEER KILLED WERE LESS IN 1923

According to Conservation Commissioner Macdonald the past season has been a very poor one for the deer hunters in this state. Not since 1918 has there been so few deer taken from the woods. In the Saranac Lake district there were twice as many hunters in the woods as last year and only one third as many deer taken. This scarcity of deer this year is attributed partly to the great number killed last season which was more than the deer herds could stand and also to the weather conditions. Warm weather caused the deer to remain on the mountains while the hunters usually remain in the valleys.

STURGEON POOL DAM OVERFLOWS

The water is now flowing over the new storage dam of the United Hudson Electric Company at Sturgeon Pool, near Rifton, on the Wallkill river to a depth of nearly two feet and falling in an impressive cascade 125 feet to the river bed below. The lake which is created by the dam extends back to the foot of Dashville Falls and in places to within 15 feet of the highway between Eddyville and Rifton. Three dynamos have been set up in the power house and they are being given exhaustive tests before current from the plant is turned onto the company's transmission lines.

Reports have reached this city that numerous leaks have developed but engineers point out that these reports are caused by ignorance. A concrete dam is built in sections, as is practically all other concrete work, with a narrow space between each section to allow for expansion and contraction of the solid blocks, due to frost, heat or other causes and water trickles through these spaces until the concrete has adjusted itself and they become water tight.

FEAR TO DRINK HOLIDAY BOOZE

Demand Slackens Because "Imported" Stuff From Rum Row Generally is as Bad as Homemade Product.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Dec. 17.—Hard pressed prohibition agents have enlisted a new ally to stop the flow of holiday booze into New York from Canada and the rum armada off the Jersey coast, Romaine Q. Merrick, a divisional prohibition chief told International News Service today.

"It is fear," he said. "The consumer is afraid to buy the bootleggers' stuff. Men are dying every day and others driven blind and insane by vile liquor."

Consequently, he declared, old customers are going on the wagon and the rum market is dull.

"So far as we can estimate it," Morrick said, "less than five per cent of the holiday cargoes are being landed from the ships in rum row."

A single ship, prohibition authorities say, can carry a cargo valued at $500,000. There are 30 ships in the fleet—many of them, according to coast guard officers, loaded with products of Eas Side stills.

"The odds are 99 to 1 against getting safe liquor," Merrick said, "and then it is not good- it is diluted. We know of one instance where 10,000 cases of 'imported' liquor on one of the sam ships became 40,000 cases over night."

No additions have been made to the little fleet of coast guard ships that are trying to check smuggling. There is no likelihood of relief before July, Merrick, said.

GIRL RESERVES OF "Y. W." ORGANIZED

Newburgh Y. W. C. A. Official Inducts Eighty Members Of Six Clubs Of Local Y. W. C. A.

A very impressive ceremony was held at the Y. W. C. A. on Saturday afternoon when the younger club girls of the Y. W. C. A. were formally initiated into the Girl Reserves by delegates from the association at Newburgh. There were eighty girls that marched into the big gymnasium, headed by the flag bearers who carried the American flag, the church flag, and the Girl Reserve flag. Each girl wore a white middy and dark blue skirt and carried an unlighted yellow candle.

Following the flag salutes, the girls came forward by clubs and were formally made members of the Girl Reserves. Each girl pledged herself to the code, to be, "Gracious in manner, Impartial in judgment, Ready for service, Loyal to friends, Reaching toward the best, Earnest in purpose, Seeing the beautiful, Eager for knowledge, Reverent to God, Victorious over self, Ever dependable, Sincere at all times." The first letters of these phrases together form "Girl Reserves."

Then, having lighted her yellow candle of service at the red candle of health, the blue candle of knowledge, and the white candle of spirit, she was declared to be a true Girl Reserve.

The following clubs were initiated, the Blue Triangle Club, the Ever Ready Club, the Pep Club, the Ever Sharp Club, the True Member Club, and the More and Merrier Club.

Miss Dorothy Applegate, Girl Reserve secretary of Newburgh conducted the service and was assisted by eighteen members of the clubs from that association. The marching was led by Gertrude Jacobson and Mary Staples.

Following the ceremonial, a delightful social hour was enjoyed.

This tree is being erected in Academy Park today by city employes. A platform will be erected in front of the tree from where addresses will be delivered and from which Harry P. Dodge will lead the assemblage in community singing. Arrangements have been made to have lights erected so that it will be possible to read the words of the Christmas carols.

FIVE DECKHANDS WENT ON A SPREE

Visited a Grocery Store on Sunday and Later Landed in County Jail —Memory Faulty as to Location of Drink Dispensary—Other Police Cases.

James Smith, Stephen Raut, Peter Hoffman, Mike Salusky and Fred Hughes, five deckhands on the Central-Hudson Line steamer Poughkeepsie, went on a spree on Sunday after the vessel had docked here. Later all five were picked up at various intervals during Sunday and lodged in the county jail on a charge of public intoxication.

This morning all five were arraigned before Judge Groves in police court. Asked as to where they obtained the liquid refreshments they replied "In a grocery store," but asked for the location of the store their memories proved faulty and they did not even remember the name of the proprietor who served them with drinks.

In each case Judge Groves imposed a fine of $10 or ten days in the county jail.

Two More Drunks.

Thomas Malia and Patrick Norton were two other week-end drunks arrested downtown by the police on Sunday. Malia was fined $10 or ten days and Norton, who was picked up on Home street by Officer "Sime" Wood, contributed $5 as it was the first time he had ever been arrested.

One Speeder Fined.

Louis Wolff of 308 Clinton avenue was caught speeding 35 miles an hour on Albany avenue on Sunday by Motorcycle Officer Soper. Louis labored under the belief that as he was "just testing out his car," he should not have been arrested. He paid a fine of $10, and was advised to "test out the car" somewhere else than on the city streets by Judge Groves.

Palen Had Fighting Jag.

John C. Palen, a 19 year old youth of No. 117 North Front street, was arrested Saturday afternoon by Officer Sackloff for being drunk and disorderly near the Rondout Creek Bridge. The officer in his report stated that Palen had held intentions of attempting to whip Abraham Serota and David Rogers, both of No. 39 East Union street. John's fighting ambitions were cooled off by the imposition of a fine of $10 or ten days in jail.

FARMERS PAYING EXCESSIVE RATES

Spend Millions Needlessly for Interest on Store Credit, Says Department of Agriculture.

BANK RATES THE LOWEST

Department Urges Thrift, Industry and Reliability on Farmers to Win Credit Standing—Bankers Asked to Help.

The cost to farmers of credit from stores is more than 25 per cent when calculated on the basis of a yearly interest rate, while banks charge little more than 6 per cent, says the official report of the Department of Agriculture on its recent survey of farm credit in North Carolina.

"Farmers would profit greatly if they could place themselves in position to borrow from banks and pay their bills with cash," the report continues. "Merchants would be benefited, since they could then give their attention strictly to merchandising and avoid the risk of loss which they now assume. Bankers would also profit, due to the resulting improvement in farmers' financial condition and the increased business which these farmers would give the banks."

A Matter of Habit

Discussing the question as to why farmers rely on store instead of bank credit, the report says that many do so out of habit and do not realize how high the cost of the store credit is.

"There are others, however, who cannot obtain credit from banks," it goes on. "This is often due to the fact that no contact has been established and the farmer's credit rating has not been determined. Banks prefer character and general business ability over any tangible security in making loans. A REPUTATION FOR THRIFT, INDUSTRY AND RELIABILITY IS THE BEST POSSIBLE ASSET FOR A MAN WANTING CREDIT.

"The first step in giving farmers better credit is to build up better contacts. This will require co-operation of county agents, farm organizations and the bankers themselves. But the banks cannot do it all. Effort toward a better acquaintance is necessary on the part of farmers. Frankness regarding their business affairs is essential."

The large part credit cost plays in agricultural conditions is pointed out by the department's report, which says North Carolina farmers contract debts amounting to more than $200,000,000 annually, and therefore a difference of only 1 per cent in the average interest rate would affect the net income from agriculture there approximately $2,000,000 each year. More than half the farmers in the areas investigated relied on merchandise advances, and the total merchant credit was nearly three times the short-term bank credit.

High Interest Rates

"The average interest rate charged for merchant credit was 22.3 per cent," the survey reveals. "Credit from local stores was the most expensive, costing an average of 26.6 per cent. Landlords came next in order, with a rate of 21.5 per cent. Factories and their agents are much lower with rates of 14.2 and 17.0 per cent respectively.

"Fertilizer and living expenses are the chief purposes for which merchant credit is extended. Stores apparently handle more of such business than all other agencies combined, while banks carry less than one sixth of the total. That the farmers fail to obtain needed short term credit direct from banks constitutes a handicap to agriculture in North Carolina since the rate on such loans is materially lower than on short term loans from all other sources."

When Autumn Begins.

Astronomically, autumn begins in the northern temperate zone at the autumnal equinox, about September 22, and ends at the winter solstice, December 21; but in popular language it comprises in America September, October and November; in England, August, September and October. Autumn in the southern hemisphere is at the same time as spring in the northern hemisphere.

The Sans-Culottes.

The name Sans-Culottes was given by the aristocrats at the beginning of the French revolution to the democratic party in Paris, because they gave up wearing knee-breeches in vogue then among the nobility, and adopted trousers, or pantaloons, instead. The term was first applied in contempt; but was afterwards adopted as synonymous with "good patriots" by the popular party.

When Men Are Earnest.

"Some men," said Uncle Eben, "neber 'pears to talk 'bout life is real, life is earnest,' 'ceptin' when dey's in a crap game."

Northern Lights Mean Wind?

A curious bit of woodcraft of uncertain scientific value which seems to prevail among some of the northern woodsmen—especially the hunters—is that the "northern lights," as the Aurora Borealis is called by the woodsmen, always predict high winds. "No huntin' tomorrow," the guide will say as he gazes from the cabin door upward, where the wonderful display "flickered and lightened and glanced and played," nearly to the zenith, like the lights on the manes of Riley's horsemen. And surely enough, by morning something like a small gale would be roaring through the forest, making it altogether "too noisy" for big game hunting. The woodsman regarded the prediction as infallible, though why, they couldn't say. But perhaps the deer know.—From the Review of Reviews.

Jackson's "Kitchen Cabinet."

"Kitchen cabinet" was a name sportively given to Francis P. Blair, Amos Kendall and others, by the opponents of President Jackson's administration. Blair was the editor of the Globe, the organ of the president, and Kendall was one of the principal contributors to the paper. As it was necessary for Jackson to consult frequently with the two, in order to avoid observation they were accustomed, when they called upon him, to go in by a back door. The Whig party styled them in derision the "kitchen cabinet," alleging it was upon their recommendations that the President removed so many Whigs from office and put Democrats in their places.

All Black by Day—All White by Night

By ELEANOR GUNN

The chic of all black and of all white is acknowledged everywhere and apparently at all times. No matter how many lovely colors are added to the list of those we wear, black and white provides a safety zone in which, if we are wise, we will occasionally loiter. Either alone or in combination with colors, they are at present appreciated to the point of enthusiasm.

From Paris comes the report that black has the leading place in the present collections for daytime wear; for evening, white, flesh and reds appear most frequently, both at the dressmakers and at smart gathering places, but there are rumors of a revival by spring of pastel colorings, especially those in a deeper range.

Other predictions based on current tendencies are that the extremely short sleeve, neglected for a while, will be the sleeve for spring and summer, and it is either this one or the long straight and fairly tight sleeve that one sees everywhere.

A three-piece costume of black velvet and skunk develops the costume on the left; the jacket ends with the upper band of fur; the lower band is posed on the slim velvet gown above a finish of gold lace with design in black velvet.

Center: A white velvet evening wrap with collar and cuffs of white fox; the facing of the collar and either side of the wrap have decorations of white velvet flowers.

With this is worn an evening gown of white chiffon velvet with shaped bodice cut out under each shoulder strap. The panel treatment on the skirt is balanced charmingly and embroideries are of white and rose pearls and brilliants.

The formality, not to say cost of such things may give them a limited interest, but the only way we may familiarize ourselves with the lightning changes of the mode is to follow what the most exclusive houses are making for the most exclusive women, for it is through this medium that fads become fashions.

Velvets, Brocades, Laces for Gowns

Rich Fabrics Are Featured in Apparel for Women's Winter Wear.

The winter season will be a brilliant one, notes a fashion correspondent, in discussing modes for the winter season. Rich velvets, gleaming metal brocades, shimmering laces and gossamer webs of chiffon and laces are shown in such enchanting displays that it seems as if the summit of sartorial loveliness has been reached. And yet, next year will bring forth just as many more glories from the workrooms of Fashion.

Nothing surpasses the metal brocades in splendor. Simple in line, they achieve the most beautiful of color effects. The more elaborate designs are chosen by the older woman, while the debutante prefers the more simple patterns of pale blue and silver, or old rose and gold. A particularly pretty model for a young girl is of pale blue and silver brocade, with blue chiffon used for a small pointed cape and for fluttering cascades down the sides. The sash and rosettes are of the chiffon and silver ribbon. Every elite evening gown should have its matching evening cape. To wear with this particular frock is a cape of the same brocade, lined with blue chiffon velvet, made so that the velvet may be worn outside.

Negligees are almost too wonderful to be true. The interesting displays in windows leave one breathless with awe and admiration. Pale blue brocade, shot with silver threads, is banded with billowy ostrich in the same shade of blue and linen with a soft blue silk. A daring Chinese creation is a rich, deep orange, with gold threads woven in and out among a maze of purple, red, green and blue embroidery.

First came earrings, then it was bracelets, and now it's beads—beads—beads. Every kind, every shape, every color; large beads, small beads, medium-sized beads, dainty beads, striking beads, exotic beads. One's wardrobe is not complete without at least two or three strands of beads. Some of the newest beads are a creamy white imitation of ivory. Some are carved, others plain, interspersed with smaller beads in dull green, red or blue. The different colored crystal beads are lovely. They may supply just the note of harmony needed to effect a reconciliation between a difficult color of eyes or hair and a much desired but unbecoming frock. They may bring out the exquisite loveliness of line or fabric of the costume; or they may emphasize the little lurking flecks of color in your eyes or hair. Truly, a strand of beads may prove a friend in need.

Afternoon Frock of Black Satin, With Sheik Girdle of Henna and Gold Embroidery.

Her Version of Concert.

A little girl to whom the wonders of evening dress were quite unknown was taken to her first evening concert. On her return home she was asked what the concert was like.

"Oh," she said, "it was very funny. There was a lady screaming because she had lost her sleeves and a waiter played on the piano all the time."

He Remembered.

"Do you remember the time when your father drove a donkey cart."

The candidate for election fixed his glasses and gazed thoughtfully at the interrupter. Then he replied: "As a matter of fact, I had quite forgotten the cart. But I am thankful to see the donkey is still alive."

KINGSTON, N. Y., DEC. 17, 1923.

After a half hour's chat Senators Lodge and Magnus Johnson have confessed to a favorable impression of each other, which shows that there are more kinds of "Senatorial courtesy" than one.

These are not "hard times." Not only have 400 companies declared comforting dividends and even 18 railroads have paid stockholders interest on their investments, but during the fiscal year ending last June more than a billion dollars was added—chiefly by wage earners—to savings bank deposits, the total of which is now reported to be nearly eighteen and a half billions.

WHAT PUBLICITY WILL DO.

What a penniless girl may suffer in a great strange city and what publicity will accomplish are illustrated by the story of Nanette Prevost, who arrived in New York from Denver with $60 in her pocket. She secured quarters at a Y. W. C. A. and started out to look for a position as stenographer, hopefully enough because she was a high school graduate. But she was unable to find employment and all her money was soon gone. Why a branch house of the Young Woman's Christian Association should have turned such a girl adrift is not explained, but it seems that finally she was found fainting in the streets and was taken to Bellevue Hospital where it was promptly discovered that she was merely a victim of hunger. This in a city well provided with agencies aiming to look out for and come to the rescue in just such cases.

Perhaps the most interesting and significant feature of the case is to be found in the fact that previous to her collapse the girl encountered only indifference, neglect, and possibly even suspicion at times, but as soon as her story got into the newspapers widespread sympathy was aroused and jobs in plenty were offered her, several of them from bankers—a class popularly supposed to be stony-hearted above the average. Possibly it was calculated that a girl ready to starve rather than go wrong would make a trustworthy and efficient employe, but it is probable that aroused human sympathy was chiefly involved. At all events Nanette Prevost will faint from hunger no more, and it is certain at least that the power of the printed word was mainly operative in the sudden and great change in her fortunes.

The conclusion of the story is the more gratifying because it is well known that so many similar stories end in tragedy for which there is no cure. According to the showing of the Travellers' Aid Societies, which are doing their best to care for girls who arrive as strangers in great cities, no less than 11,000 women and girls were reported missing last year in 33 cities, of whom 900 had not been located when the year ended. Men and children also disappear, but not under the same peculiarly tragic conditions too often inseparable from the disappearance of young women. In 37 cities last year 31,638 men, women and children were reported missing, 2,500 of whom were not found. And these figures collected by the Travellers' Aid Societies are said to include only about half the total disappearances.

HOW DOES HE GET THAT WAY?

Since he led the "free silver" legions years ago William J. Bryan's cure-alls have been many, but perhaps the most remarkable of them all is to be found in the following editorial reference to an extraordinary utterance recently made by him. "What weighs on Mr. Bryan's mind is that the Volstead act does not run more than three or twelve miles to sea, as it may suit the purpose of enforcement officers. He would have it made world-wide for all Americans, wherever fortune or thirst may guide their steps. He would read the Constitution and statutes that an American citizens must be a total abstainer anywhere he may be, and that if in London, Paris or Munich a drop of damnable drink passes his lips he shall be forever barred from re-entering his own country."

In these days of heavy travel to Europe, with no signs of lessening thirst, obviously such an edict of banishment in the course of time would cut down our population alarmingly. And if the hundreds of thousands who sin abroad are to be barred out, what about the millions who sin at home? Consistency and justice would demand that they be trailed, caught in the act, convicted and banished also. Ordinary race suicide is a trifling matter compared with a policy aiming to cut down our population about one-half within a few years. Mr. Bryan should be advised to drink a strong cup of coffee (if his principles will permit,) take a brisk walk in the fresh air, endeavor to remove his mind from beneath the shadow of Demon Rum, and try to think of something pleasant.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.
(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)

TURN OFF THE POWER.

You are passing through a factory when the foreman stops suddenly. On asking him the reason he says, "That's an unusual noise I hear."

After listening carefully he finds out about where the trouble is and immediately he shuts off the power.

Why?

Because with the power off no further damage can be done to the machinery.

Then, with the power off, the necessary repairs are done.

Sometimes with machinery, some grease has got on a belt, perhaps some part is in need of grease or oil.

Similarly with that body of yours, something goes wrong.

Perhaps your liver becomes clogged, or the kidneys are not filtering the blood properly.

Well what about it?

Why you should use the same sense as you would with machinery and turn off the power.

What do I mean?

That your power supply comes from only one source and that is from the food you eat.

Therefore if anything goes wrong your first thought should be to cut off food at once.

More food, more energy at this time, is just the same as running the machinery when some parts are in need of repair.

Further, with your organs congested your first plan is to get rid of the wastes in the system.

This a purge, and injection into lower intestines, a good sweat by the skin, will all help to rid the system—the blood—of this excess waste.

And so if your physician suggests that for a day or a couple of days you are to eat no food whatever don't disobey, nor allow a kindly disposed friend to smuggle you some dainty.

That body of yours will carry along nicely without added fuel or power. This working without fuel enables it to gradually rid itself of poisons, and it can then take on fresh nourishing food with which to bring you up to your usual strength.

Directed by God's Hand?

The downfall of Constantinople in 1453 seemed to threaten the very continuance of Christianity. But it led to great benefits. Greek scholars and writings were scattered all over Europe and this led to a revived interest in Greek literature and study of the Bible. It produced that golden age of literary production which we call the Renaissance, and in religious matters, the Reformation. And trade shut from the East, found a new outlet in the West. Forty-five years later Columbus discovered America.

Some Names for Dogs.

Ordinary dog lovers who bestow short and snappy names such as "Spot" or "Fan" on their pets would feel aghast at some of the names borne by dogs recently on show in London. "Heart of Hell" is the name of one poor little beast, and others bear names even more grotesque, such as "Airman's Xrangl," "Harpurhey Chrysanthe," "Rufus MacSkootch," "Brocaire Danau of Gesto," "Tarragon Under the Steeple" and "Exning Fair Lesley."—Manchester Guardian.

Only Slightly Changed.

An instructor in a church school where much attention was paid to sacred history, dwelt particularly on the phrase: "And Enoch was not, for God took him." So many times was this repeated in connection with the death of Enoch that he thought even the dullest pupil would answer correctly when asked in examination: State the exact language of the Bible what is said of Enoch's death. But this was the answer he got: "Enoch was not what God took him for."

"Moshi Noshi" Girls.

Six thousand "hello girls" are employed in the telephone exchanges in Tokyo. The Japanese call them "moshi noshi" girls.

CHRISTMAS FESTIVITIES AT CROSSPATCH CENTER

Willow, Dec. 17.—"Yes, we will have an oyster supper at Crosspatch next Saturday evening, December 22," writes Mrs. Cross from New York. She adds: "I had intended to say, 'Yes, we have no oysters today' and offer our guests the humble but nourishing 'hot dog' instead. Indeed the 'dogs' were ordered, but I got a letter saying that everybody was looking forward to the oyster supper and no one who knew of the change of plan could bear to tell them, so I cancelled the 'hot dog' order and asked Mr. Mower at Woodstock to send up our usual Christmas order of oysters 'already shucked and ready for the stew.'

"Perhaps I should explain that it is a very big job to make oyster stew for 150 persons—and that's our usual attendance. I am the cook and make enough at a time to fill fifty plates. I flavor and cream it just as I would for guests in my own home, but our whole crowd always want supper at the same moment and don't want to wait while I make the second and third lots.

"Last year none of our young people would help to wait on table. They were all having such a good time dancing.

"By the time I stand over 150 plates of oyster stew and see that the mixture doesn't scorch or get cold, I never can bear to look an oyster in the face during the rest of the year.

"So I've decided to make the stew and hope some of our guests will help to serve it. City people think it quaint when I tell them that our Crosspatch people prefer oysters to turkey, but they do.

"In addition to Santa Claus with his gifts and the gorgeous Christmas tree, there will be a 'penny shower.' A friend has given handfuls of bright new pennies. They will be thrown about and the youngsters can have the fun of scrambling for them.

"Those who wish to bring presents for their friends can do so and Santa Claus will give them out, if they are plainly labeled.

"Quite a number of New York people are hoping to get up to Crosspatch as Saturday evening, the 22nd, would give them an opportunity to get back to their own homes for Christmas. Among those invited are President Bizallion and Vice-president Thomas Fry of the Gotham National Bank of New York, the Hon. Arthur J. Westermayer, the well known author and playwright, and Dr. Arnold J. Sutherland, who is always welcomed as a pleasant friend and good hunter.

"The young ladies of Willow and the neighborhood are invited to Crosspatch on Saturday morning, the 22nd, to decorate the tree and trim the house with evergreens. Besides the lower floor for dancing, the big dining room on the upper floor will be decorated and made ready, so fifty people at a time can have supper and not disturb the festivities below.

"Everything from grandpa to the baby is expected to greet Santa Claus at Crosspatch Saturday, evenings, December 22."

Mrs. Cross will come from New York on Wednesday to get ready for the Christmas festival on Saturday.

A Diamond Mine For You

CERTAIN South African farmers were poverty stricken.

They said the soil was too rocky to plow. They complained that their children were in rags—that they had to play with pebbles instead of toys.

The pebbles were diamonds! But the farmers didn't know. Many of them died poor.

Don't be like the South African farmers! Don't seek opportunity in some distant place and overlook the wealth that is daily within your grasp.

Advertising points out values you would probably overlook if it were not there to tell you. No other one thing will give you such economy and keen satisfaction in your every-day buying.

JOSEPH CHARLES WAS DISCHARGED

Joseph Charles, the World War hero who captured a German machine gun nest and twenty prisoners, was discharged in police court this morning after a hearing of the charge lodged against him by his wife who said he had abandoned her and failed to provide for her support.

Mrs. Charles was represented by Attorney Isidor Sampson, while Judge Brinnier, Jr., appeared for Charles.

It was brought out by Mrs. Charles's testimony that this was her second marriage. She has five children by her first husband. She married Charles last summer. She claims he deserted her on November 5 of this year.

It was brought out that her sister had boarded with her and paid board and that her oldest boy was working and paid board. In addition to that she was herself earning on an average $18 a week.

Judge Groves, before whom the case was tried, said it was evident that it was a case to be heard in supreme court, and granted Judge Brinnier's motion to dismiss the case. Judge Groves stated he based the dismissal on the admission of the wife that she was earning $18 a week. "The gates of the supreme court are open," said Judge Groves turning to Mrs. Charles "and that is the place where you should seek a separation from your husband."

ONE LANDLORD HIS TENANTS LOVE

Hundreds In Two New York Tenements Pray For Recovery Of Max Dicks's Son—Dicks Gives $50 To Every Baby Born In His Houses.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Dec. 17.—A tinge of sadness crept into pre-Christmas excitement at "the house of babies" today.

Max Dicks's boy, Irving, is dying.

The little chap may not live to hang up his stocking on Christmas eve, and only the mothers of this big tenement house in the Bowery know what a calamity this would be, what a calamity it would be to Dicks.

Max Dicks, said Mrs. Jake Berger, who lives in the third floor in the house of babies, 67-69-71-73 Rivington street, is the finest man that ever lived.

"He's our all-the-year-round Santa Claus. Any mother in this tenement will tell you so."

Mrs. Berger should know. A few weeks ago the stork came to her humble home, and brought twins.

The doctor had no sooner left than in came Max Dicks" said Mrs. Berger. "He was all smiles.

"Twins!" he exclaimed, "that's the best yet in the house of babies."

"He called my husband aside. He gave him $500, $250 for each twin. And he said he'd take no rent for six months.

Max Dicks had played Santa to many, many little mothers in his tenement before His two famous slogans have been: "Rent free, if you can't pay" and "no children—no apartment."

Last Christmas there wasn't a kiddie of the 325 kiddies in the building who didn't have a doll, a red wagon a set of blocks an electric train, or something and to the 56 tired, overworked little mothers there is nothing a mystery as to who played Santa Claus.

Every time a baby has been born in the house of babies the parents have received $50 from the year-round Santa. Its a standing offer.

The push cart peddlers in front of the Dicks tenement pay no rent, Mrs. Charles Heiden, who collects the rent for the building, says the rent hasn't been raised in twenty years. Three-room apartments are still $15 a month.

The little bent mothers will tell you Max Dicks was penniless when he came to this country from Austria years ago. He worked as a tailor's helper for $2.75 a week. Now, at sixty, he owns two big tenements. Never, in his climb to riches, has he forgotten the little mothers or their babies

"That's why," said Mrs. Berger, "that the mothers of this tenement have turned their Christmas thoughts from toys to prayers.

"Go into the little church down the block and see how many folks are praying for Max Dicks's boy.

"I don't believe but that God will answer these prayers. Surely, God will not be unkind to a man like Max Dicks, a man in whose heart the spirit of Christmas shines all the year around."

EVENTS OF THIS WEEK AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

Wednesday, Friday and Saturday of this week being Ember Days, there will be a celebration of the holy communion at the church at 8 o'clock in the morning Wednesday and Saturday and at 10 o'clock on Friday morning. The Friday morning service will take the place of the regular Thursday morning service.

On Tuesday afternoon there will be a meeting of the Parish Aid Society at the parish house at 3 o'clock.

At 4 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Frederick Warren will serve afternoon tea at her charming new home, No. 8 Pearl street, for the benefit of the Women's Auxiliary of the church. There will be a small charge.

Gravel.

Gravel is the name given to aggregations of water-worn and rounded fragments of rock, varying from the size of a pea to that of a walnut. When the fragments are smaller than this the deposit is sand; when larger, it is called shingle. Gravel deposits are formed by the action of running water, and are usually limited in size, occurring with more extensive strata of sand.

TWO IMPORTANT CATS

Two cats lived on the same city block. There were some other cats who lived on the block, too, but these two cats were the important ones.

Often a Saucer of Milk.

They were like leaders on the block or cat citizens of high renown and fame.

You know how in a town there are usually a few very leading citizens, although they are not the only people in town. Well, on this block there were other cats as I've said, but these two were the important ones.

The other cats did not come out of the houses very much. They liked to stay in the apartments and just take an airing once in awhile.

True, they did come out, but they didn't walk up and down the block and greet their friends as these two important cats did.

The two big cats had always seemed to live on the block—they had for years at any rate.

And they seemed to be owned by everybody, or at least to have many owners and many friends.

At night and when it was cold and horrid they went to one of the basements where lived a kindly janitor, who took them in and gave them a warm place to sleep before the friendly old furnace.

They never had to be out of doors unless they wished to be, and knowing they could always be protected from storms and rain was a very comforting thought.

Always, too, they could get enough food. In fact, every janitor was anxious to feed the two cats, so well thought of in the neighborhood were these cats.

People, too, who lived in the apartments would bring them delicacies to eat—often a saucer of milk would be brought out. For most of the time the cats were out of doors, as I've said.

They would sit in front of the different apartment houses and as the ones they knew and liked came out they would go up to them and rub them and make soft purring sounds to show how friendly they were.

And how many people would speak to them and would say "good morning" to them just as they would to real people.

"Me-ow, me-ow," said the first cat; "we are very lucky. In the first place we have brains. And what is more, we know how to use our brains, which is more than can be said for all creatures.

"It is wise to be where one is well looked after, and it is here that we are well looked after, so we have the brains to know where it is we're well off, and we use our brains in thinking all this out."

"Me-ow," said the second cat. "It is the truth that you speak."

"We think for ourselves," said the first cat. "We didn't have to be told these things; we thought them all out."

The second cat didn't answer for a moment. The beautiful sun was so warm and so cosy and the second cat had dropped off to sleep for a moment, closing his eyes and now opening them half sleepily.

"It's such a lovely, quiet, restful day," said the first cat. "All our friends seem to have gone out, and now that we've been polite to everyone let us curl up by our special apartment house and take a good rest in the sunshine.

"Sunshine, it is said, is good for creatures. Cats believe this, too."

"Your suggestion is splendid," said the second cat. And, indeed, the second cat was delighted at what the first cat had suggested, for it had been all he could do to keep awake while the first cat was talking.

It Is the Truth.

So the first cat and the second cat sat hunched up side by side.

How enormous and how handsome they did look, for though they had been born but ordinary cats, they had become handsome, fine-looking cats, for they had known that this would be possible with the help of these splendid apartment-house friends.

It had been so long since first they had wandered into this block! And now they were the block's most important cat citizens. Yes, they had educated themselves so they knew how to behave, and they had used their brains in picking out their home and their friends.

Oh, life was very pleasant to think about and to dream about, most especially just now to dream about, they thought, as they both closed their eyes and napped in the warm, sleepy sunshine!

CANDIES WITH HONEY

If you have a few hives of bees the Christmas candy problem will be quite easily solved. A card or two of honey is a present that few will not appreciate.

Honey Caramels. — Take a cupful of the best-flavored extracted honey, one cupful of sugar, three tablespoonfuls of sweet cream, and boil to the soft-ball stage. (When a drop is put into cold water it may be gathered in the fingers in a soft ball.) Add a teaspoonful of vanilla just before taking off the fire. Pour into a greased pan, having the syrup a half inch or more deep. When cool enough, mark off into squares and wrap in parafin paper. If chocolate is wanted add one tablespoonful of melted chocolate to the mixture with the vanilla, stirring it in well.

Walnut Creams.—Take one cupful each of brown sugar and honey and one-half cupful of sweet cream. Cook to the soft-ball stage, stir in two tablespoonfuls of butter and, just as it is taken from the fire, add a teaspoonful of vanilla and one cupful of chopped walnut meats. Stir and pour out into a buttered tin to cool. Mark into squares when cool enough.

Barber's Honey Candy.—Take one quart of honey, one cupful of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of butter and two tablespoonfuls of strong vinegar. Boil until it makes a hard ball when dropped into cold water, then add one teaspoonful of soda. Pour into buttered pans to cool. Omit the soda and vinegar and the candy will pull nicely.

Butterscotch.—Take one cupful of butter, two cupfuls each of sugar and extracted honey, one teaspoonful of cinnamon. Boil ten minutes; pour into a buttered pan and, when cool mark off into squares.

Crackerjack.—Take one cupful of brown sugar, one cupful of honey; boil until it hardens when dropped into cold water. Remove from the fire; add one-half teaspoonful of soda. Stir in all the popcorn or puffed rice it will take; spread in a greased pan and, when cool, mark into squares.

A Cosmopolitan.

Joe—Bill, what's a cosmopolitan? Bill—Well, suppose you was a Russian Jew livin' in America, and married to a Chinese woman, and you had just finished an Irish stew and you was smokin' a Turkish cigarette, while a nigger band outside was playing "The Blue Bells of Scotland," then you'd be a cosmopolitan.

Scots Made Pistols.

Before the advent of the American revolver, the Scottish cities of Perth, Stirling and Dundee were great centers of the pistol-making industry. Scottish pistols were famous as far back as 1515, and were exported to many countries. There were at one time nearly 100 concerns in Scotland engaged in the industry.

Sholes' Prediction.

Christopher L. Sholes, inventor of the first typewriter to be commercially successful, is said to have predicted that his invention would prove one of the greatest factors in the emancipation of women, by enabling them more easily to earn a living.

CALIFORNIA FIND IS OF INTEREST

More Talk of Man Coming to America From Asia.

KILLED OFF THE MASTODON

Burton Mound, a small hillock lying some 250 yards back from the ocean beach near Santa Barbara, Cal., has become one of the focal points of world scientific interest by reason of the discovery there of skulls and spear heads said to be those of paleolithic man.

Instantly the words "Santa Barbara man" sprang into being, and if the identification by Dr. J. P. Harrington of Smithsonian institution withstands minute examination of the material the Santa Barbara man is destined to fame equal to that of the Neanderthal man, the Piltdown man and the Heidelberg man.

Professor Harrington's tentative identification of his find as Cro-Magnon opens the gate to all manner of interesting speculations. The Cro-Magnon people succeeded the Neanderthalers as the masters of Europe some 25,000 years or more ago. They were handsome folk, with well-shaped heads, equal in cranial capacity to our own. Professor Osborn, a recognized authority on anthropology, says of them: "So far as the mental power of these men is revealed by their brain structure they were quite capable of higher education."

Art Works Found in France.

In the Cro-Magnon caves in France were found spirited reproductions of mammoth and reindeer, which were the chief sources of food and clothing in those days. These pictures are done with a precision and feeling for action that demonstrate their authors to have been born artists, men of imagination and sensibility as well as of tactual skill.

The idea that men of this choice breed had once roamed America, that they may have been responsibile for the Great Serpent mound in Adams county, Ohio; the "effigy" mounds in Wisconsin, the Mexican pyramids and other mysterious gifts to America from the past, is by no means new. It was advanced when the Ozark region produced from its depths carved bone relics highly suggestive of Cro-Magnon origin and picturing the mastodon, prehistoric deer and other animals.

Since that discovery many anthropologists have felt that it was merely a question of time until more definite trace of the artist was discovered in our soil. To that extent the discovery of the Santa Barbara man is the fulfillment of a promise.

It is generally believed that the Cro-Magnons entered Europe from the East, from Asia. Professor Harrington thinks that the Santa Barbara skulls and Eoliths appear in strata at least 55,000 years old and perhaps older than that.

As the usual era assigned to the Cro-Magnons in Europe is anywhere from 15,000 to 50,000 years ago the assumption is that one branch of that great family wandered east to Europe, while the other moved west to America over a land bridge, the extension of Alaska then connecting Asia and America. However, the land bridge is not essential; they might have crossed on the ice or may even have negotiated a narrow strait of open water.

Killed Off the Mastodon.

This presumably capable gentleman from Asia and his descendants had full swing upon this hemisphere for many thousands of years. How many no one can say decisively as yet. Those who first noted the Asiatic influence in the physiognomy, traditions and picture writing of the American indigenes thought that the connection may have been fairly recent—say ten or twenty centuries. But fossil "finds" in various parts of the United States when interpreted in the light of geological knowledge, have pushed the veil of the unknown further back.

These finds have been numerous and widely scattered. They prove conclusively that man existed here side by side with the mastodon. They indicate that he hunted, snared and destroyed that great beast. It is even possible the mastodon was exterminated, not by a cataclysm of nature or a gradual shortening of food supply, but by human hunters, in much the same way that our fathers would have utterly wiped out the bison except for the belated stirring of conscience.

Through many thousands of years, then, the descendants of Cro-Magnon man fought up and down two continents. Tribes rose and fell in endless wars; only occasionally did peace give the opportunity for advancement in culture.

Discovered 400 Years Ago.

When the whites discovered America less than 500 years ago they found the inhabitants of the north country rude and warlike, subsisting largely by the chase, scourged by periodic famine and low in the scale of political organization. The most effectively organized were the Iroquois, relatively newcomers to central New York. But in the Southwest more civilized tribes of agriculturists, herdsmen and weavers, lived in settled towns with close-knit community organization. Some of them occupied huge buildings which we call "pueblos."

Still further south in the heart of Mexico Cortez found in the Aztecs an even more advanced civilization. They had temples and priests, kings and slaves, arts and architecture, an aristocracy, a confederacy of states and a regular descent for the crown. Even more suggestive of an ancient Old World civilization, like that of Egypt, was the Inca kingdom conquered by Pizarro and his followers on the west coast of South America in what is now Peru and Ecuador. But both Aztecs and Incas inherited from their forerunners many of the things that amazed Europeans.

The Aztec migration into Mexico came from the Northwest. Their warriors battered and hacked their way into possession of the central plateau of Mexico through more civilized tribes. The vague but by no means untrustworthy native records of Mexico run back two or three hundred years before the white man's arrival and reveal the migrations into Mexico of seven more or less related nations. These conquered the pacific and industrious peoples who had built huge pyramids and other important architectural works, peoples whose folklore contained a well-developed story of the Creation and who used picture writing. Aztec picture writing and the Aztec calendar with its cycles named after various animals point unmistably toward a Mongolian origin. Both in Mexico and Japan the Asiatic origin of Mexicans has received official recognition. There is no reason to doubt that the North American Indian and the Mexican come from the same root.

Moved Faster in Old World.

Here arises one of the most interesting speculations in history. If the Santa Barbara man is true Cro-Magnon he was a member of a gifted race that had a rich and spacious continent at its disposal for more than 25,000 years. Yet things did not move here as swiftly as they did in Europe, or in Egypt or China or India, for that matter. The difference between Aztec and Spaniard when they faced each other at Mexico City 400 years ago may measure the failure of the Cro-Magnon in America.

Furthermore there are indications that the whole level of American aboriginal life was declining rather than rising when the white man arrived. The Inca empire already had passed its zenith of magnificence before Pizarro came; the Mexican confederacy when Cortez appeared was not what it had been. Old civilizations had passed away, leaving ruins grander than the living could achieve.

Why this failure of a talented race to progress as swiftly in the New World as in the Old? Was it because, though gifted in many ways, it lacked political sense? The answer may some day be wrung from the earth and interpreted by the wise men to us, or to our descendants. For this business of ferreting out the facts of the long ago is a going concern, likely to continue as long as men and women remain at all curious about their origins.

ROOSEVELT STATUE GIVEN TO CITIZENS OF MINOT, N. D.

This photograph shows the Roosevelt equestrian statue, presented to the citizens of Minot, N. D., by Dr. Henry Waldo Coe, former North Dakota citizen and now of Portland, Ore. The statue will be dedicated to the children of North Dakota at ceremonies which will be held in 1924, arrangements for which are now being made. The gift is a replica of the statue presented a year ago to the city of Portland. Doctor Coe practiced medicine at Mandan, N. D., during the time Theodore Roosevelt rode the prairies of the western portion of the state, and became a warm personal friend and admirer of the eastern youth who went to North Dakota to regain his health.

Staging the Old Songs.

"Ah, for the old days!" sighed the old-fashioned young man. "The girls of today are not at all like their mothers used to be! Why, I'll bet you don't know what needles are for." He glanced with scorn at the modern girl. "I do, too!" she flashed. "They're for phonographs!"—Wayside Tales.

POLICE TO HAVE OWN GYMNASIUM

Room on First Floor of City Hall to be Used and Common Council Appropriates $1,000 for That Purpose—Needed by Department.

It is expected that the work of getting the former board of health room on the lower floor of the city hall ready as a gymnasium for the police department will shortly be started. Some of the gym equipment has already been received and the remainder of the material has been ordered. The common council at its last session approved an appropriation of $1,000 to be used for that purpose.

In addition to the gym, two small shower baths will be installed in the room for the use of the members of the police department. Kingston is the only city that has not furnished bathing facilities for its police force.

Under an agreement with the local Y. M. C. A., made several years ago by the board of police commissioners, the police force had the use of the gym there for several hours one day a week. With the gym located adjoining police headquarters it will make it much more convenient for the policemen and they will be better able to keep themselves physically fit.

The cost of fitting up the room for gym purposes is nominal.

The room to be used as a gym has been used as a sort of store room for the local Red Cross, which organization will be given the use of a room in the Municipal Building on East O'Reilly street for that purpose.

The idea of fitting up the room for gym purposes has the approval of the police board, Mayor Crane and all interested in the matter.

MAILING THE LETTER TO SANTA CLAUS.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

The decorative lady in cloth and fur is among the many who have ceased to regard fur simply as a means of keeping warm and has learned its value as a trimming. Developed in bottle green broadcloth, this coat has a hanging panel or cape of mole and an apron of the same soft fur, as well as collar, cuffs and a band at the hem. Winter coats have outdone themselves in interest, not only in new fabric novelties, but color, and the many extraordinary placements of trimming brought into play.

Clothes which are not loudly patterned have soft dull surfaces. There are, of course, the usual exceptions to this rule, and coats range anywhere from 45 inches to half that length. The shorter models usually are those worn for sportswear or else are part of a two or three-piece suit. From some sources, it is reported that the three-piece suit receives but scant, one might say spasmodic attention, but generally speaking, the three-piece idea has registered this season and is slated for a continuance of such favors as the spring may bring.

The entire trend in coats as well as suits subscribes to diversity, not only of fabrics, but of silhouette and trimming details. The use of novelty fabric plays an important part in the current program, and while there are coats of unadorned simplicity, they are usually those which are associated with active interest in either sports or travel.

In all manners of coats formed on the simple outline such as are affected on topcoats, one feature is agreed upon and that is the loose armhole and sleeve accompanying it—both treated in the manner of a man's coat. The important point of this feature is that a baggy fit is obtained through the shoulders—an effect totally different from the tightly fitted sleeve and narrow shoulderline of the conventional American tailored garment. Not only does the idea appear in coats, but is noted in the suits prepared for travel and resort wear. Here again the resemblance to masculine garb is noted, for the tailored sports suit whose particular character is attained in its fit, is marked by a square shoulderline and loose hanging sleeve.

Christmas Seals Are On Sale.

The little red and green stickers that the Tuberculosis League sells each year are again available. In past years it has been the custom of many of us to use them to seal Christmas packages. The American people seem destined to play the role of Ye Cheerful Giver and it is with deep satisfaction that they can contribute to the Tuberculosis League, knowing that the money will be spent here at home, in a cause worthy of their efforts. The Office Cat hopes you will take seriously this one serious note in a frivolous colyum. In the name of the League, He thanks you.

If you see a man smiling these cold days, it doesn't mean necessarily that he is crazy. He may be a coal man.

Correct this sentence: "The visiting team made a spectacular triple play and the crowd cheered itself hoarse."

"Stop, Look, Listen!"

The above wording as it appears on danger signs is familiar to everyone. It is perhaps the most widely posted sign in America. Being so common may tend to reduce its effectiveness. Why not signs worded—

STOP! OR BE STOPPED!

On The Other Hand.

A large map was spread on the wall and the teacher was instructing the class in geography. "Horace," said she. "When you stand in Europe facing the north you have on your right hand the great continent of Asia. What have you on your left hand?"

"A wart," replied Horace."

One way to conceal your ignorance is to tell your small son to look it up himself and then he will remember it longer.

Shocks the Teacher.

A certain teacher, proud of the way in which she had instructed her class in botany, told the examiner to call on any scholar and to ask whatever question he pleased on the subject. It happened that the first pupil selected was a newcomer who had attended only two lectures. Asked to name some botanical terms, he replied: "Please, sir, I know only two—aurora borealis and delirium tremens."

Wood Lighter Than Cork.

In spite of the advances of practical science, there are still some indispensable materials the making of which is still nature's secret, and for which no entirely satisfactory substitute has been found. Among these substances is cork. It is possible, though, that nature herself, in this case, offers a substitute in the wood of a tree growing on the east coast of Lake Tchad, in Africa, which is of even less specific gravity than cork.

Curse of Ignorance.

Ignorance follows the man who is satisfied with what he knows, and nothing ever cursed the health and lives of human beings more severely than ignorance.

Apaches of Paris.

The apaches of Paris were so named by newspaper men about 1908. Two men named Manda and Lecat loved the same woman, who was named Casque d'Or. She bestowed her affections upon Manda, whereupon a quarrel arose between the two men. Manda was shot and killed by Lecat. The quarrel was taken up by Manda's friends and followers. Soon two large bands were organized and their quarrels became so violent that the name "apache" was given them.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them new with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of trouble and destroys the germs that lead to serious complications.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in treatment of chronic coughs and colds, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

COMMISSIONER OF N. Y. STATE LEAGUE

Colonel Chandler Again Appointed Honorary President and Commissioner of Basketball League—Trip to Europe Not Expected to Interfere.

Says the Albany Knickerbocker-Press:

Colonel George F. Chandler of Kingston, formerly superintendent of state police, will again act as honorary president and commissioner of the New York State Basketball League, it was announced by President Louis H. Stolz following a meeting of the managers of the league at the Mohawk Hotel in Schenectady Sunday afternoon. Major Chandler was the league's honorary head last year following the resignation of George K. Morris of Amsterdam, chairman of the state Republican committee, because of business reasons. Major Chandler plans a trip to Europe in January, but this is not expected to interfere with his duties in the league.

Three teams are making a hard fight for the pennant in the league. At present Dick Donlon's Cohoes aggregation is showing the way in the circuit with five victories and two defeats, having a percentage of .714. The Spindle City outfit is playing stellar ball this season and Manager Donlon is confident his charges will capture the flag.

Some of the best basketball tossers in the east are playing with Cohoes. Benny Borgman, one of the fastest court performers ever developed in the east, is the star of the Cohoes quintet. He is playing a bang-up game for Donlon's crew. His work has been a feature of every Cohoes contest thus far this season. Borgman is the leading individual scorer in the league

Other members of the Cohoes team include Tom O'Neil the big Trojan; Neidle, Knoblauch and Ripley.

Schenectady and Glens Falls are tied for second, each team having won five and lost four games.

Amsterdam is drawing poorly, the managers of the Carpetmakers having threatened to surrender the franchise unless they receive better patronage.

The official standing of the league as announced Sunday night by President Stolz, follows:

Club.	W.	L.	Pct.
Cohoes	5	2	.714
Schenectady	5	4	.556
Glens Falls	5	4	.556
Amsterdam	3	4	.429
Utica	2	3	400
Mohawk	3	5	.375
Gloversville	1	2	.333

THE WEEK AT RONDOUT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

The children's Christmas entertainment will be held in the chapel on Friday evening, December 28, and at that time each class of the Sunday school will furnish a number for the program and Santa Claus will be present and participate in the festivities. Christmas is the only time the Sunday school asks anything from the congregation distinctly for themselves and the children's day offering is for missions, but the offering next Sunday is to provide a fund for the children's Christmas and for that purpose between $40 and $50 will be needed.

The Westminstr Guild will meet in the chapel this evening.

Next Sunday afternoon at the vesper service the choir will render the Christmas cantata, "The Incarnation." The choir will be assisted by Mrs Carolyn Sager Rich and Arthur Rifenbary, and the following members of the Mendelssohn Club: Messrs. Russell Dana, Henry Darrow, Lester Elmendorf, Charles R. O'Connor, George Hudler and Conrad Heiselman

The subject for Thursday's prayer service will be "What Ought We to Pray for as a Church?"

John Monroe's resignation as superintendent of the Sunday school has been received with regret and at the meeting of teachers and officers of the school Fred L. Van Deusen was elected to succeed Mr. Monroe

INCREASE IN NEW TREASURY SAVINGS CERTIFICATES' SALES.

The new treasury savings certificates at $20, $80 and $800, with matured value of $25, $100 and $1,000 respectively, paying an investor 4½ per cent compounded quarterly, are proving a very popular investment at the Kingston Post Office and stations. These are registered as soon as sold to the investor and are therefore an exceedingly safe and convenient method of putting aside a few hard earned dollars. Postmaster DeWitt is giving his personal attention to explaining the advantags of these government securities as well as looking after his other numerous duties at this time. He will welcome all callers at the main office who may desire to investigate this attractive, sound investment.

Testing Fish.

Sailors have a very simple, and what is said to be a very effective way of determining the edible or non-edible qualities of any new varieties of fish they may happen to run across. In the water in which the fish is boiled is placed a bright silver coin. If the coin retains its natural color during the boiling process, the fish is good to eat. But if it turns dark, the food is rejected.

Y. P. B. ORGANIZED AT WALDEN WITH 40 MEMBERS

The Walden Citizen Herald prints the following:

Mrs. William Dobert, a member of the Wallkill W. C. T. U., seems to have the gift of foresight and can see a vision of the future, viz, a large, flourishing, progressive Young People's Branch of the Wallkill W. C. T. U. Well knowing that in order that her vision might eventually become an actuality it would require continued preparedness in the present, she sent out a call for a rally meeting to be held in Community Hall on Saturday evening, December 8, at 8 o'clock. A good representation of young people were inattendance.

Mrs. J. W. S. Cox, Y. P. B. county secretary, was the chairman for the evening. The meeting opened by singing from the Victory Song Book. Miss Dora Crookston presided at the piano. Prayer was offered by the Rev. Howard Kanter, after which Mrs. Cox, in words fittingly chosen, introduced the speaker, Sidney Ayres, president of the New York State Y. P. B., and a student at Union Theological Seminary, New York city. Mr. Ayres made a very inspiring and refreshing address. He told of the necessity of development of the work as well as its pleasures and benefits; and explained the responsibility resting upon the young people of today. Keep your total abstinence pledge and help others to do so. Be progressive in the cause of temperance and loyal to the 18th amendment. As in union there is strength, so by organization much more could be accomplished than otherwise.

A vocal solo by Charles Conine, of New Hurley, was enjoyed.

Miss Helen G. Estelle, of Poughkeepsie, State Y. P. B secretary and organizer, spoke interestingly on "Narcotics." A vocal solo, "Face to Face," was sweetly rendered by Miss Viola Crookston. Charles Conine gave a recitation. Sidney Ayres offered the closing prayer.

An organization of a Y. P. B. of Wallkill was effected with 40 charter members. The following officers were elected:

President—Georgiana Stillwell.
Secretary—Elliot Cox.
Treasurer—Viola Crookston.

The next meeting will be held during the Christmas holidays, at Mrs. William Dobert's, the date to be announced later.

Among the visitors present were: Mrs. Gern, president of the Newburgh W. C. T. U.; Miss Irma Schwartz, president of the Y. P. B. of Shawangunk, and Mrs. Charles Conine, of New Hurley, County L. T. L. secretary.

Seized Copper Stills are Made Into Xmas Gifts by Crippled War Vets

STILLS, worms, filters and other copper paraphernalia of the manufacturing booze merchant are being turned into Christmas presents this year. This is through an arrangement made recently between U. S. Marshal A. C. Sittel, custodian of stills seized by prohibition agents in Los Angeles, Cal., and the disabled war veterans of the Arrowhead Hospital.

Many of the crippled ex-service men have been learning to work in metal and have achieved a high degress of skill in making useful and beautiful articles for Christmas sale from copper. When a truck load of confiscated copper was sent to them they saw a way to make their own Christmas plans possible and at the same time provide a lot of delightful gifts to be disposed of through their friends. The Federal judges had ordered the stills destroyed and the marshal found an ingenius solution of the whole matter.

The soldiers have been turning out copper gifts at a great rate. With hammer and pliers they have been making the material into sliding bridge lamps, lamp shades, desk sets, ash trays, picture frames, paper weights, blotter holders, card cases and various other decorative objects for the desk, the walls, or the library.

The results of their work have been the cause of much compliment by makers of novelties. Copper is very malleable, easily worked, has a beautiful color, and is so permanent in its nature that it can be made into a wide range of articles that will withstand the effects of time, climate and use.

It is expected that other copper from the same source will be forthcoming before the holidays are over. The early spread of the idea into other states for the benefit of the veterans still under hospitalization is expected.

INCREASED WAGES SHOULD MEAN INCREASED SAVINGS

By S. W. Straus, President American Society for Thrift

At the present time there is a general tendency toward higher wages in industry. In some lines wages are 150 percent higher than pre-war levels. In the buildings trades the workers are earning more money than ever before. In countless other departments of business wages and salaries have for some time been far above previous levels.

The question of wages, however, is not as important fundamentally as is the question of what the workers are doing with their earnings. As a man's wages increase it is but natural that his standard of living should also reach higher levels. But he is not acting within the bounds of good judgment if he does not increase his savings, too, along with his increased earnings.

Wages and salaries are not profits. The wage earner and salaried man can only show profits in the form of savings. Money that is idly spent is gone forever, and unless a man saves something out of his year's work he might as well write off that year as a total loss.

It is a fundamental fact that one's ability to save money is not entirely a matter of income. Many men with limited earnings are able to save and get ahead. Others with large salaries are barely able to make ends meet.

From the standpoint of a man's best interests, therefore, it is not so much a matter of wages as it is a matter of savings. The man who helps produce wealth through his labor whether it be mental or physical certainly is entitled to rightful remuneration and it is pleasing to note that employment conditions through the country today are in such a substantial condition; also that among competent authorities opinion prevails that the outlook is good.

But the workers owe it to themselves in self-interest, to lay by a goodly part of their incomes.

High wages should also mean high savings.

Now is a propitious time to give thought to this great truth.

WHY BANKS?

LESSON II

By J. H. PUELICHER, Chairman,
Committee on Public Education, American Bankers Association.

J. H. Puelicher

Why does Government charter banks,—simply to make money for stockholders, or because banks are needed by the public? What is a bank? Text books say, "A bank is a quasi-public corporation, chartered by State or Nation, to receive deposits and make loans."

STOCKHOLDERS — owners.

QUASI-PUBLIC — semi-public,—that is, owned by private stockholders, but regulated by government to see that the depositors' money is safely loaned.

STATE BANK CHARTER — privilege, grant or right to do a banking business under supervision of the State Banking Commissioner.

NATIONAL BANK CHARTER — grant to do business under supervision of the Federal Comptroller of the Currency.

SUPERVISION — the sending by government of examiners, at least once a year, into a bank without notice, to count its cash, examine its loans, bonds and mortgages, and see if its books are correct.

Banks can do only those things permitted in their charters. No business is more closely watched and regulated by State or Nation. Banks cannot, therefore, be run simply to make money for stockholders, but are chartered to meet the needs of the people and are held to that purpose by government supervision.

The AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

274 NEW MEMBERS IN YEAR

Roy R. Volk, Adjutant Altus (Okla.) Legion Post, Adds Many New Names to Roster.

To Roy R. Volk, adjutant of the James Monroe Rosch post of the American Legion in Altus, Okla., is given credit for a remarkable growth of post membership.

When Volk was named to the post of adjutant the organization had but 18 members, but he increased this in less than a year to 292, making it one of the principal posts in the state.

The first thing Volk did was to secure one of the best-equipped clubrooms in the state, with a kitchen which would permit meals to be served to 300 at one time, a billiard room and a $1,500 library. Well-equipped offices and lounging rooms are to be found in the quarters.

In his drive for members Volk made a clean sweep of the city of Altus and extended his efforts to the surrounding country, visiting many ex-service men on nearby farms. He hopes to boost the post membership to 500 before the close of the year, and aspires to a home owned by the post.

Roy R. Volk.

Volk lost all his immediate family, two brothers and a sister, in the World war and is himself disabled. As sergeant in air service, he was cited for meritorious work while at Post field, no similar recognition having been granted a soldier at that post throughout the war, it is said.

FLAGS ARE IN SEALED CASES

World War Colors of Ohio Units Are Placed in Statehouse at Buckeye Capital.

Flags carried by Ohio units in the World war have been placed in a sealed glass case in the statehouse at Columbus, O., there to rest by the side of the colors carried by Ohio regiments in the Civil war.

The ceremony attending the return of the flags to the state, in accordance with a recent order of the War department, was attended by many veterans of both the Civil and World wars. Three national units of defense are represented by the World war flags now in the keeping of the state—the regular army, the National Guard and the reserve corps. In a parade prior to the placing of the flags in the statehouse many of the colors were carried by the original color sergeants who carried them in the World war.

The flags were presented by Col. Charles Rhodes, chief of staff, Fort Hayes, Fifth corps area commander, representing the United States government. They were received by Adjutant General Henderson of Ohio.

American Legion officials participated in the ceremony.

LEGION THEIR BEST FRIEND

Disabled American Veterans Express Confidence in Organization and Seek Its Help.

The American Legion is the best friend of the ex-service man, was the declaration of James A. McFarland of Dalton, Ga., national commander of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, in an address delivered before the national convention of the Legion at San Francisco.

"The disabled American veterans realize that the best friend of the ex-service man is the American Legion," he said. "That the organization that has the strength to force the issue to demand the recognition due the ex-service men is the Legion, and I am sure my crippled buddies of the D. A. V. are glad that I rode 3,000 miles to let you men of the Legion know that we believe in you and want you to stand by us and help us."

Post Leases Auditorium.

The Lincoln (Neb.) post of the American Legion has leased the Lincoln City auditorium for a period of one year. The lease carries all contracts previously entered into by the city with individuals. The Legion post plans to use a part of the building for clubrooms. A canteen probably will be established in the auditorium.

Forest Estimates.

It is estimated that if the forests of the earth were completely stocked and scientifically worked they would yield annually the full equivalent of from 30 to 120 times the present consumption of coal.

TO AID ALL EX-SERVICE MEN

Outline of Year's Work Made Known in Resolutions Adopted at Legion Convention.

The policy of the American Legion for the coming year—which definitely means the policy of nearly 1,000,000 persons throughout the United States holding membership in the organization, and in reality represents the principles which will guide hundreds of thousands of unaffiliated ex-service men and women in this country for the same period, is embodied in the resolutions adopted at the recent national Legion convention in San Francisco.

These principles cover a variety of problems. The American Legion has taken a definite stand upon practically every question of national and international importance now before the people of the United States.

The most important of these is the question of rehabilitation, according to Legion leaders. The American Legion, at its national convention, adopted 91 resolutions embodying recommendations for governmental steps, legislative or otherwise, all insuring more complete justice to disabled service men at the hands of the United States Veterans' bureau. Although such a mass of suggestions for the improvement of the government's service to disabled ex-service men is proof that the bureau is not entirely as it should be, most of the resolutions call for legislative changes, and indicate no fault in the administration of the body. In fact, the convention expressed its appreciation of the way in which the bureau has been conducted by Director Frank T. Hines, who has served as head of the bureau since last March.

Outstanding among the resolutions offered under the head of rehabilitation are those continuing the work of the national rehabilitation committee of the Legion along the same broad lines as heretofore; recommendation that the federal law be amended to the end that no time limit prevent a veteran from receiving medical treatment or hospitalization for disability attributable to service; a suggestion that congress appropriate additional funds to permit improvement of the caliber and efficiency of the bureau; a request that nearly 5,000 beds be added to government hospitals to care for present and future needs, and a resolution instructing the national rehabilitation committee to survey all federal and state penal institutions and insane asylums to determine the number of ex-service men therein suffering from curable mental ailments caused by service.

The Legion for the fourth time reaffirmed its stand on adjusted compensation and demanded that congress pass the adjusted compensation bill without further equivocation or delay. The national Americanization commission of the Legion was authorized to establish a bureau of community welfare, work out a program whereby posts throughout the country can cooperate in movements for civic betterment, and urged that all posts devote their best efforts to the benefits of their local communities.

Specific details of the suggested program recommend the Legion work for the betterment of schools, recreation, park and playground facilities, furtherance of boy scout work and active participation in scout and troop organization and management; medical clinics, municipal music concerts, public forums, community buildings and city planning.

The fulfillment of the terms of the national defense act of June, 1920; the bringing of the navy's auxiliary strength to the standard required by our capital ship strength authorized under the 5-5-3 agreement and the development of aeronautics, especially a merchant air service, also was strongly advocated.

The American peace award plan was favored by another resolution, and the national commander was directed to appoint a permanent international peace committee to report at the next annual convention.

The Legion denounced as un-American any individual or organization which creates or fosters "radical, religious or class strife among our people, or which takes into its own hands the enforcement of law, determination of guilt or infliction of punishment."

The Legion again affirmed its policy in favor of suspension of all immigration for five years and stricter regulation in the absence of an exclusion law. Other resolutions, forming the keynote of the American Legion policy for the next year embodied the following points:

Indorsement of the maintenance of cordial relations with our allies in the World war and approval of the French policy in the occupation of the Ruhr;

Indorsement of land-reclamation projects, particularly those in the Colorado and Columbia river basins, which, it is pointed out, would make available hundreds of thousands of acres for soldier settlement;

Indorsement of a constitutional amendment empowering congress to enact legislation to prevent child labor;

Reaffirmation of the demand for a universal service law for the conscription on labor and capital as well as man-power in case of war;

A demand for the immediate passage of the Bursum bill, giving disabled emergency officers of the World war the retirement rights enjoyed by officers of the regular army, and

A declaration for the establishment in congress of a special committee to deal with all matters affecting the interests of World war veterans.

Low Cunning.

It is a special trick of low cunning to squeeze out knowledge from a modest man who is eminent in any science, and then to use it as legally acquired, and pass the source in total silence.—Horace Walpole.

The oil shares played the leading part in the trading during the forenoon today. The higher crude oil prices announced last week and the expectations of an advance in the mid-continent field in the next few days resulted in the active buying of issues in this group. Aside from a further rise in representative chemical stocks, the industrial list showed a good deal of irregularity. Heavy profit taking in some issues caused sharp losses. The rails after early strength turned weak, Northern Pacific losing ¾ to 52¼ and Union Pacific nearly 3 points to 126¼. Steels were quiet but steady.

The market developed a firmer tone in the afternoon, although such major groups as the motors, the steels, and the equipments were more or less affected by profit taking. Selling of high priced railroad shares unsettled the entire group.

POMONA GRANGE ELECTS OFFICERS

The regular meeting of Ulster County Pomona Grange was held at Grange Hall, Lake Katrine, Friday December 7, with a good attendance.

The morning session was taken up with reports from the various granges.

The next in order of business was the election of delegates to the State Grange, which will be held at Buffalo in February. The following were chosen: George Millham, New Paltz, delegate-at-large; Beatrice Zincgraph, Mt. Tremper; Cortland W. Tice, Wawarsing; Mrs. L. D. Sahler, Stone Ridge; Charles Smith, Asbury.

The meeting then adjourned for noon recess, when the ladies of Lake Katrine Grange served a delicious chicken dinner, including a bountiful supply of good things topped off by apple pie a la mode. A unanimous vote of thanks was given the ladies for their efforts.

At the beginning of the afternoon session, a class of eight candidates was obligated in the fifth degree.

Election of officers to serve for the next two years then took place as follows:

Master, Clarence E. Davis, Saugerties; overseer, H. V. Story, Ulster Park; steward, Russell Martin, Milton; assistant Steward, George Millham, New Paltz; chaplain, Mrs. C. C. Hardenburg, Stone Ridge; treasurer, Frank Terhune, Clintondale; secretary, Mrs. Mary Brink, Lake Finger; lecturer, Mrs. David Kieffer, Lake Katrine; gate keeper, Clarence Finger, Saugerties; Pomona, Helen C. Taber, Milton; Ceres, Mrs. J. V. Alsdorf, Clintondale; Flora, Mrs. L. Covert, Clintondale; lady assistant steward, Mrs. J. H. Clarke, Milton; press reporter, H. C. Taber.

This was followed by an exhibition drill by the Asbury Degree team, who in their white costumes made a pleasing picture as they executed the various figures of the drill with dignity and precision under the capable leadership of Mrs. Relyea.

Both sessions were enlivened from time to time with wit and humor from the master's chair, past master's and others.

The meeting then adjourned to meet at New Paltz the first Friday in March and all felt that an enjoyable and profitable day had been spent.

The "Divina Commedia."

More than a magnificent poem, more than the beginning of a language and the opening of a national literature, more than the inspirer of art, and the glory of a great people, it is one of those rare and solemn monuments of the mind's power, which measure and test what it can reach to, which rise up ineffaceably and forever as time goes on, marking out its advance by grander divisions than its centuries, and adopted as epochs by the consent of all who come after. It stands with the Iliad and Shakespeare plays, with the writings of Aristotle and Plato, with the Novum Organum and the Principia, with Justinian's Code, with the Parthenon and St. Peter's. It is the first Christian poem; and it opens European literature, as the Iliad did that of Greece and Rome. And like the Iliad, it has never become out of date; it accompanies in undiminished freshness the literature which it began.—Thomas Nelson Page, in "Dante and His Influence."

Wellington at Waterloo.

Of the Duke of Wellington's personal conduct in the battle of Waterloo (June 18, 1815). Sir William Fraser says in his "Words on Wellington": "No man in his army was so exposed during the battle as the duke himself. He rode along the top of the ridge that sheltered his troops in some measure from the fire of the French artillery. This was done not in the slightest degree for theatrical display, but because, after carefully balancing in his mind the advantages and disadvantages, he determined that it was better for him to do so. He felt that everything depended upon him, and that the loss of his life might be the loss of his army. On the other hand, he knew that he had to deal with troops, not with a few exceptions veterans, but chiefly boys, for they were hardly more, many of whom had never been engaged, and who had had no opportunity of seeing him win a battle. He felt that his first object must be to inspire confidence in his soldiers."

Outdated Authors.

Outdated history is mainly unreadable—Robertson and Hume, for instance. Motley and Prescott survive, because, so far as I am concerned, they are not outdated. Macaulay is good reading still, so Carlyle, so Michelet, though you need not believe a word they say. But you don't read them for the facts, rather for the impression the facts make upon them.—Maurice Hewlett!

GASOLINE FROM OIL SHALE

No "Gas" Has as Yet Been Marketed by This Method but Scientists Are Hopeful.

Nobody has yet been bold enough to estimate the quantity of oil shale or of shale oil existing in this country and elsewhere. For the present it is sufficient to say that it is enormous.

Occurring in a compact laminated rock formation of sedimentary origin and containing a varying amount of organic matter, the shales are the product of many geological ages—Devonian, Triassic, Tertiary, Carboniferous, Cretaceous and Permian.

The by-products are numerous and valuable and include hydrocarbon gas, ammonia, gasoline, kerosene, lubrication oil, paraffin, dye compounds, explosives, rubber, naphtha, fuel oil, wax and carbon black. Ichthyol is added to the list in some shales. Gasoline is of course the main and most valuable product, it being in volume about 25 per cent of the total recovery.

In every known instance the shales occur with so heavy an overburden of mountain that mining must be conducted after the manner of mining other underground products—coal, copper and the like—by means of tunnel, shaft and stope. The operation of mining, therefore, presents no difficulties not met and solved long ago.

The shale must then be crushed by ordinary methods, which again offers no serious physical difficulty. The product is then ready for retorting and refining, and here is where the difficulty begins. It has been found that Scotch methods of refining will not serve with the American shales, and a small army of experimenters has been independently at work in Colorado, Utah and other Western states trying out various types of retorts.

Up to the present time, so far as the writer has been able to inform himself, practically no shale oil has been refined and placed commercially on the market. At the mining congress at Cleveland retorting and refining methods were discussed and views exchanged. Although compelled to admit that success had not been attained so far as commercial production is concerned, each participant in the discussions was most optimistic of the future—none doubting that a successful retort would eventually be perfected. It is going to be a case of "needs must when the devil drives," and all were convinced that the devil would soon be driving in the shape of a disappearing oil supply.

The average content of American oil shales is approximately 42 gallons (one barrel) to a ton of shale. Instances of a much larger yield are, however, quite common, running sometimes as high as 80 to 100 gallons per ton.—Outlook Magazine.

Wobbling Pole.

That the Pole wobbles is a puzzle as well as a scientific fact. One theory is that the wobbling is caused by vast accumulations of ice and snow. Another is that it is caused by the outer shell of the earth slipping upon the core of the planet.

Suppose King Tutankhamen had sent an expedition to find the North pole. Let it be imagined that the goal was reached and that a post was driven into the ground to mark its exact location. Amundsen, if successful in his present project, would not find the pole in the same spot as it was 3,500 years ago, but it would not be far away.

From a given center, suppose a circle to be drawn from a radius of thirty feet. Inside of that circumference the pole is always to be found.

It is quite possible that the crust of the earth slips, because the shell which forms its envelope has considerable elasticity. The earth goes round on what is called its "axis of rotation," and it has another axis, an "axis of energy." At one time these two coincided, but now this is no longer the case, and their deviation produces the slipping which is the cause of the wobbling of the poles and the corresponding changes in latitudes.

Longed to Be Good Sport.

The girl was very rich and the young man was poor. She liked him, but that was all, and he knew it.

"You are very wealthy," he remarked.

"Yes," she replied, frankly. "I'm worth a half-million dollars."

"And I am poor," he continued.

"Yes," she assented.

"Will you marry me?" he asked.

"No," with emphasis.

"I thought you wouldn't," he said.

"Then why did you ask me?"

"Oh, just to see how a man feels when he loses a half million."—Houston Post.

A Hard "C."

There are few persons about whom more stories illustrating the possession of a genial wit are told than Mr. Oliver Herford, the artist and maker of clever verses. The Argonaut says that he was once speaking over the telephone with Prof. Brander Matthews, who had just announced his intention of sailing for Europe on the Celtic—which he pronounced "Keltic."

"Oh, please don't say Keltic, Brander," pleaded Herford. "Because if you do, you know, you'll have a hard sea all the way over."

Fit the Sermon.

The special preacher was asked if he would like any particular hymn to be sung to agree with his sermon.

"No," he replied. "The fact is, I seldom know what I am going to say until I arrive in the pulpit."

"Well, in that case," said the vicar, "we had better have the hymn, 'For those at sea.'"

Law Was Obeyed.

"Just think, it was against the old blue laws to kiss one's wife on Sunday!"

"That so? What was the penalty?"

"Dunno. No husband was ever brought up on the charge."—Boston Transcript.

CONGRESS IN THIRD FRUITLESS WEEK

Row With Republican Progressives Just Settled in House, Same Faction in Senate Continues to Thwart Regulars' Efforts at Organization.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Dec. 17.—The sixty-eighth congress entered its third week today with small hopes of making any forward strides toward enactment of its legislative program before adjourning Thursday for the Christmas holidays.

Republican leaders planned to start the legislative ball rolling in the house where a peaceful compromise has ended the insurgent revolt. A score of appropriation bills, hundreds of other legislative measures and innumerable speeches awaited the house's attention.

A gloomy outlook, however, confronted the senate where the insurgent progressive forces continued on the warpath. The deadlock over election of a chairman for the interstate commerce committee was unbroken although the insurgents threw their support to Senator Ralph B. Howell, Republican, of Nebraska, and Senator James Couzens, Republican, of Michigan, as compromise candidate. The offers was rejected by administration leaders who announced today they would continue to support Albert D. Cummins of Iowa, who has held the post for the last four years.

When balloting was resumed today the insurgents threw their support to Senator Howell, Republican Nebraska, "a compromise" candidate, but the Republican regulars continued to vote for Senator Albert B. Cummins of Iowa, former chairman. The first ballot resulted in a deadlock, as Democrats supported Senator Ellis D. Smith of South Carolina.

CHURCH BURNED BY FIRE OF UNKNOWN ORIGIN

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Haverhill, Mass., Dec. 17.—St. Joseph's French Canadian Catholic Church at the corner of Locust and Grand streets, was destroyed by fire today. Damage was estimated at $100,000. The cause of the fire is unknown. Three alarms were sounded.

The Rev. Fr. Henry Perennes, pastor of the church battled five policemen in an attempt to rescue the blessed sacrament and sacred vessels from the flames. Finally policemen and firemen escorted him to the fire lines where he collapsed.

About a dozen nuns asleep in their residence nearby were led to safety when sparks from the burning structure ignited their buildings. The parochial residence also caught fire. The church was built in 1876.

Smoot Predicts Bonus.

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Washington, Dec. 17.—Senator Reed Smoot of Utah, the Republican chairman of the senate finance committee, made the flat prediction today that a soldiers' bonus bill would be enacted by congress despite a veto by President Coolidge.

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATRES

Tonight and Tuesday at the Keeney Theatre will be shown, "Temporary Marriage." The Fox news will contain scenes of the disastrous wreck of the Twentieth Limited recently at Forsyth, N. Y. The feature picture contains a mystery story in which a young lawyer assumes the blame for a murder, committed in an apartment, where his sweetheart was visiting.

Tonight the vaudeville program at the Opera House will be made up of five entirely new acts. The picture to be shown for the first three days will be "Affinities" by Mary Roberts Rhinehart. It is a Ward Lascelle production, featuring Colleen Moore and John Bowers.

When Thomas Meighan's latest George Ade Paramount picture story, "Woman-Proof," which will be shown at The Orpheum tonight, tomorrow and Wednesday, the spectators will see a genuine explosion of nearly seven thousand cases of dynamite which was used in blasting of a thirteen-mile tunnel at Huntington Lake, Cal., where work on the biggest hydro-electric project in the world, involving the expenditure of $27,000,000, was in progress at the time the picture was filmed. Mr. Meighan plays the role of a civil engineer who is supervising this huge industrial scheme. In the picture, the tunnel is supposed to cave in, entombing scores of workmen. The rescue of these men forms some of the most thrilling scenes in the picture. The following are the supporting players: Lila Lee, leading woman; Robert Agnew, Charles A. Sellon, Vera Reynolds, Bill Gonder and Mike Donlin.

At the Auditorium today is Walter Heirs in "60 Cents an Hour," a comedy.

ENGLAND'S HISTORIC WAY

Dover Road Recalls the March of Caesar's Legions Across Barham Downs.

Dover road—England's historic highway—is 70¾ miles long measured from its ancient starting place, the south end of London bridge, to Dover cliff. An hour's journey over the Dover road is an excursion into 2,000 years of history and centuries of English poetry and romance, says the Detroit News.

In his book, "The Dover Road," Charles G. Harper says, "Caesar's presence haunts the weird plateau of Barham downs, and the alert imagination hears the tramp of the legionaries along Watling street on moonlit nights. Shades of Britons, Saxons Danes and Normans people the streets of the old towns through which the highway takes its course or crowd in warlike array upon the hillsides.

"Kings and queens, nobles, saints of different degrees of sanctity, great blackguards of every degree of blackguardism and ecclesiastics holy, haughty, proud or pitiful rise up before one to terrify with thoughts of the space the record of their doings would occupy; in fine, the wraiths and phantoms of nigh upon 2,000 years combine to intimidate the historian."

Punch and Judy in China.

The origin of the Punch and Judy comic puppet show has been the subject of much discussion. Punch has been identified with Pontius Pilate Judy with Judas the betrayer, or with the Jews, and the play with one of the old "Mysteries." This notion is entirely without foundation, the Detroit News declares. The name Punch is simply a contraction of Punchinello (for Pulcinello, the buffoon of Neapolitan comedy), while Judy is probably derived from Judith, at one time a common name.

It is said that a character similar to Punch is founded in the puppet plays of Italy, Egypt, Persia, India, China and Japan. Punch and Judy shows were introduced into London in 1662 by an Italian, who erected a booth near Charing Cross for their performance.

Important Purpose.

"Have you any plan for straightening out the affairs in Europe?"

"Of course," answered Senator Sorghum.

"Will it work?"

"Well, I won't say for sure it will work in Europe, but in this, my own my native land, it will serve the very important purpose of helping to keep me before the public."—Washington Star.

SURGERY FOR THE ANIMALS

Operating Table for Horses Has Been Opened in University of Pennsylvania.

Horses, cows and mules can now be given surgical treatment for tumors, wounds, laryngitis, ruptures, broken bones, severed tendons, distortions and many internal diseases that formerly made it necessary to shoot them.

Such operations are being performed every weekday in the year, not only for the purpose of getting information concerning rare diseases that may be of value later in treating human beings, but to save and prolong the lives of the animals and to increase their usefulness, says the Scentific American. And the same facts apply to dogs, cats and other pets, including rabbits, goats, canary birds, parrots, monkeys and even the pungent skunk. They apply also to barnyard fowl—chickens, geese, ducks and turkeys.

What might be called the other side of the antivivisection story was brought to public attention quite recently in Philadelphia by the announcement that there had been set up in the University of Philadelphia veterinary hospital the first operating table ever built for the accommodation of horses and other large animals. The machine was designed by Dr. John W. Adams, professor of veterinary surgery and obstetrics at the university and chief operating surgeon at the hospital, which is run in conjunction with the school. It was evolved after several years of experience and after all existing apparatus had been found unadaptable to the peculiar needs of the veterinary surgeon.

MUSICIANS ARE LONG LIVED

This Seems True Especially of English Organists Who Have Obtained Good Positions.

Usually the clergy are supposed to live longer, on an average, than the members of any other profession.

Certainly doctors do not take a foremost place. The dangers of their work lower their average life. Men in the higher ranks of the law, judges particularly, are proverbially long-lived, but many fall by the way in the lawyer's busy calling.

A claim is now being made for those who obtain a comfortable position in the world of music, and instances are given. Sir Walter Parratt, the organist of St. George's chapel, Windsor, England, has been at his work for 60 years, beginning as a boy of eleven, and he varies music with the most trying of all games, chess.

Sir George Elvey, the organist at Windsor before Sir Walter, held the post for 47 years. Sir Frederick Bridge, late organist at Westminster abbey, retired when he had held his post 44 years, and he followed an organist, James Turle, who had served the abbey 56 years.

Barking Sands.

At certain points along our seacoasts "vocal sands" are found in patches, exhibiting a phenomenon that has never been very satisfactorily explained. The beach at Manchester, N. H., is famous for them.

These sands, when dry, yield a peculiar sound if struck by the foot, or even when stroked by the hand. At the same time a tingling sensation is felt by the fingers or by bare toes.

The sound resembles the distant barking of a dog, and it may sometimes be heard at a distance of 100 feet.

The most remarkable "singing sands" are found on the island of Kauai, one of the Hawaiian group. By clapping them between the hands a faint hooting noise is produced. But the hostile sounds are greatly intensified by putting a quantity in a bag and slamming it about.

No Cause for Worry.

The late Henry Clews, the famous New York banker, was an economical man despite his great wealth and he had a horror of wastrels.

There is a story about a banker who once said to Mr Clews:

"My boy Scattergood is a frightful spendthrift. I dread to think that all my money will one day be left in his hands."

"Oh, don't worry," said Mr. Clews grimly. "It won't stay there long."

Post Composed of Indians.

A post of the American Legion, composed entirely of Chippewa Indians who served in the World war, has been formed on a reservation at Reserve, Wis. National Commander Alvin Owsley was made a chieftain of the tribe, when he paid a visit to the Wisconsin convention of the Legion. The Legion official was named "Beautifying Bird" in honor of the tribe's greatest orator. He is said to have been the first white man to be accorded this honor.
